

Users Guide

Clubhouse is a new audio-based social networking site. Clubhouse contains virtual rooms where people gather to discuss a variety of topics. When you enter a room, you will most likely just listen to the conversation. If you have a question or input, the room moderators can invite you to talk. While it's relatively new, it is reported to have over 10 million active users from around the world.

Clubhouse is essentially a conference call, but without the video. It's like live podcasts but with a more exclusive group of folks. It differs from live podcasts as once the call is over; the room is closed. There's no archive of the conversation for you to return to later. Though some members may have ways to record the live conversations.

One of the perks of Clubhouse is that it's voice-only. So, you don't need a spotless background for camera view, or even be in your office. You can connect to the call anywhere you have cell phone service. You don't have to worry about what you are wearing or whether your hair is a mess. It also reduces screen fatigue because you don't have to stay focused on the camera. Clubhouse is the perfect solution for those who are shy but want to join in to talk with and learn from others.

Clubhouse is an app that you'll need to download to your iPhone. Currently new members are added by invitation only, but soon enough it will open to the public. When you open the app, if you don't have an invitation, you can reserve your username for when it opens, or when you find someone to send you an invite.

Clubhouse is a wonderful way to network with others. It can help you gain new followers, display your expertise, build a loyal audience, and even make money. Yes, that's correct, you can use this app to make money. When you become the hub of information for others, they are more likely to take your advice and buy your products.

You can connect your Clubhouse account to other social media accounts such as Instagram, Twitter, and Facebook. This will make you more visible to all your connections through those accounts. Once you connect your accounts, you can have Clubhouse scan your contacts to find people that you can follow, to get an invite from and once you have an account, to invite others to join.

Once you're a member, you can create your own room where you can share stories, learn, ask questions and more. You can plan and host events with a specific purpose. You can create a club or community of users who regularly talk about a shared interest. There are open rooms where anyone with a Clubhouse account can join and there are also closed rooms where you must be invited to join. These closed rooms are great for having team meetings and such.

Joining other people's rooms gives you the opportunity to expand your knowledge, to see what others are discussing and what questions they may have. This can help you build a list of topics you can use in your business, for creating your own discussion room and more. By joining discussion rooms, and offering to share your knowledge, you can expand your following and make new business connections.

When you're ready, you can create your own rooms to talk about not only the items on your newly created topic list but any others you feel are important. For example, if you offer marketing services or software, you can talk about the numerous ways to market a business, tools they can use (including your own), things to avoid, current trends and older methods that still work well today.

Just like with other social media sites, Clubhouse can be used to expand your reach, build relationships, and grow a loyal following that wants to take your advice. It gives you the opportunity to showcase your knowledge and to raise your level of expertise and a whole lot more. However, unlike other social media sites, Clubhouse allows you to make more personal connections because you are speaking with people directly rather than just posting content for others to read.